

All in all, the teachers are excited and thankful for the class of 2023 and the students they had the pleasure of meeting and knowing.

Smith remarked, "As the years have passed, I've realized that I have fewer classes ahead of me, it is good to have a class I have enjoyed working with."

McLaughlin noted, "Just because you're graduating, [that] doesn't mean we will not help. You are always a part of the Trinity family."

Polansky added, "I will miss the class immensely."

Even though these past years have been tenuous and stressful for everyone worldwide, the THS teachers and the Class of 2023 made strong connections with one another. The teachers and students are both thankful for the experiences they have shared together, and these teachers salute and commend the senior class to launch them off into the future.
